

Romantic Compatibility Report

Who is Humphrey?

Basic Personality Profile

Humphrey's straight eyebrows and straight chin indicate that he is logical and pragmatic in both his thinking and his actions—he isn't one to be overly sentimental. However, his large pupils indicate that he in fact feels things very deeply and his experience of the world is an emotional one. His thin nose base reveals that he is self-reliant and self-sufficient, while his chin's average size indicates that he's not overly sensitive to criticism and, interestingly, he doesn't feel the need to get the last word in during an argument. He does have a horizontal line on his chin, signifying that he needs to get validation of his own worth from external sources. This also translates as him being an over-achiever, always trying to prove just how valuable he is. When he is flying high, he is unstoppable; however, he needs to feel unconditional love and support when he has made a mistake. Lastly, his ears do not overly stick out, which reveals that he is not too much of a non-conformist—he tends to follow the rules.

Communication Style

Humphrey's mouth is an average width, which signifies that he is comfortable with communication in general. He is neither an extrovert, nor an introvert, but could be called "normal" in terms of how much he is willing to share about his thoughts and feelings. Because his lips are full, this further reinforces that he's emotionally expressive, and tends to also have a good sense of humor. You could say that his communication style is generally to be open.

Intimacy Requirements

Humphrey has a wide space between the vertical ridges in his philtrum (the area between his nose and mouth), which indicates that he is someone who needs physical affection and touch in relationships. His upper eyelids are not fully covered up (they show slightly), which signifies that, in relationships, he is neither a clinger, nor a loner. He values emotional connection with his partner as much as he values his alone time. As mentioned before, Humphrey's lips are on the full side, which reveals that he is a passionate and sensual man.

Who is Lauren?

Basic Personality Profile

Lauren's angled eyebrows and straight chin reveal that she is someone who is a very careful evaluator and forceful implementor. She may even be perceived as somewhat intimidating to others. Her small irises indicate that she is a very sensitive person and intensely dislikes shouting. Lauren's nose width is average-to-wide, revealing that she is naturally inclined to support and provide for those whom she loves. Further down her face, Lauren's chin is an average size, which signifies that she's not overly sensitive to criticism or inclined to want to get the last word in during an argument. And the absence of a horizontal line on her chin reveals that she acknowledges her own self-worth—she doesn't need affirmations from external sources. Lauren's ears do not overly stick out, which indicates that she is someone who is more comfortable following the rules in life than striking out on her own. At the tip of her nose, Lauren has a slight groove, which reveals that she is someone who lives by her heart—and she tends to fall in love very easily. Amplifying this is the fact that she has two dimples on her cheeks, signifying that love, relationships, and romance are very important to her.

Communication Style

Lauren's mouth width is average, which reveals that she is comfortable with communication in general. She is neither an extrovert, nor an introvert, but could be called "normal" in terms of how much she is willing to share. However, her bottom lip is much fuller than her top lip, which means that she is naturally more comfortable talking about external reality than her own internal world. In other words, she would rather talk about what she is doing than what she is feeling—facts over feelings.

Intimacy Requirements

Lauren's wide space in the groove of her philtrum (the area between her nose and mouth), reveals that she is someone who needs physical affection and touch in her relationships. Her upper eyelids are not fully covered up (they show slightly), which indicates that she values emotional connection with her partner as much as she values alone time. In other words, her relationship requirements are balanced.

***

Relationship Commonalities

Humphrey and Lauren both have straight chins, which means that they both tend to be goal oriented and not act from feeling. Their average sized mouth widths, upper eyelids, and ear angles also indicate that they both are "normal" communicators, have balanced intimacy requirements, and are inclined to conform to established standards and not be too independent in thought. Also, the fact that they have similar sized chins makes for smoother arguments, as both are not trying to get the last word in. Finally, the fact that they both have wide grooves in their philtrums signifies that they both require physical affection and touch in their relationships.

Emotionally Supportive Traits

Because Humphrey's nose is on the thin side, he is naturally inclined to be rather self-sufficient in general. But, Lauren's wider nose reveals that she tends to support loved ones. Humphrey may feel energized from a relationship with Lauren because he gets to "take a break" from being so self-reliant. In other words, it's a breath of fresh air for him to feel taken care of. Humphrey also has that horizontal line on his chin, which means that he needs someone else to validate his self-worth—and he also needs someone who won't necessarily "kick him when he's down". Because Lauren doesn't have this same line on her chin, she has validation to spare. In other words, she is comfortable enough in her own skin to give that much needed encouragement and support to Humphrey. Finally, Lauren's dimples indicate that love and romance are important to her, and Humphrey's full lips reveal that he is up to the challenge, as he is naturally passionate and sensual.

Relationship Challenges

Lauren's angled eyebrows and therefore her inclination to want to be mentally in control of things may feel intimidating at times to Humphrey, who's more logical and pragmatic in his thinking style. Also, the fact that Lauren's irises are very small reveals that she is a sensitive soul almost "allergic" to shouting. This may lead to misunderstandings between the two because Lauren may feel that Humphrey is shouting at her when he only slightly raises his voice. Lastly, Lauren's lower lip being fuller than her upper lip (indicating she's not readily comfortable discussing her feelings), may make discussions about their relationship challenging.

Love Language

The shared love language for both Humphrey and Lauren is "Physical Touch". They both need affection on a daily basis. Additionally, Humphrey's other love language is "Words of Affirmation", whereby he needs his partner to reinforce his lovability with meaningful words and unsolicited compliments. Lauren's other love language is "Receiving Gifts", as her romantic nature would truly appreciate the love, effort, and thoughtfulness that goes into gifting.

***

A couple's compatibility is truly dependent on how well "seen" each person is. Once someone is understood, anyone can be in a successful relationship together. The key is to ask yourself if the other person is truly who you would like to be with. Examining the basic nature, commonalities, and challenges between the two of you can help you determine this—and hopefully this report has been a useful tool for you toward that end.